45 Years of Transformation
Empowering the Digital Age

2025 MCNC COMMUNITY DAY ✪ NOV 5-6, 2025

Tracy Futhey
Chief Information Officer
Duke University

As chief information officer at Duke University, Tracy Futhey presides over the university's information technology endeavors.

Throughout her 35-year career as a technologist, Futhey has influenced the higher education technology landscape regionally and nationally through active membership of regional and national higher education organizations and as a frequent advisor to research projects, startups and Fortune 100 technology companies.

She holds a bachelor's degree in mathematics with a computer science concentration and a master's degree in industrial administration, both from Carnegie Mellon.